Organisational Development Manager role being advertised externally:

Should anyone be interested in applying for this role, or know someone externally who may be qualified to fulfil this role then it is being advertised on Seek and the H2R website tonight onwards. Applications go direct to H2R.

Senior Manager HR/OD – Social Services Sector

- Keen to make a difference?

Youth Horizons is a high performing not-for-profit organisation that has a commitment to bi-cultural practice. They make a real difference for youth with conduct problems and mental health issues through the provision of evidenced-based sustainable solutions. If you would like to utilise your considerable HR and business expertise to make a contribution in society where it counts, then this could be the role for you.

HR, L&D, OD, policy, quality and risk management, plus service improvement - this role really has it all. As a member of the CEO's Leadership Team, you will be working both strategically and operationally to ensure that these areas of the business are running effectively and efficiently in order to meet the needs of individuals, family and communities

This role adds value and truly offers variety and challenge. Whilst you will be required to wear multiple hats, key to your success across these functions will be your excellent communication, relationship building and leadership skills. You will be able to grasp the bigger picture whilst translating that into robust policies and procedures that not only protect the organisation but the people that the organisation supports.
